The American Heritage Youth Chorus is an LDS-oriented choral organization sponsored by American Heritage School in American Fork, Utah. The choir performs regularly throughout Utah, focusing primarily on sacred, inspirational music. Since its inception in 2007, the choir has had the opportunity to perform with artists such as Dallyn Vail Bayles, Steven and Janice Kapp Perry, Roger and Melanie Hoffman, Michael Ballam and Lex De Azevedo. In 2009, the choir was selected with other top Utah children's choirs to participate in the Mormon Tabernacle Choir's annual Christmas Concert featuring Natalie Cole and David McCullough.

American Heritage School was founded in 1970 after the close of the BYU Training School. As a K-12 private school, its purpose is to "educate hearts and minds" of students through a faith-based, principles-based curriculum.
